Cenovus wins 31st Oilmen's Bonspiel

By VICKI BROOKER

Review Staff

Two four-point ends were the key to success for the Cenovus rink, made up of many-time rinkmates Jeff Latos, Shane Freeson, Trent Cherry and Trevor Gilby, who won the 2014 Elk Point Oilmen's Bonspiel grand challenge Saturday evening.

Cenovus counted four in the first end of the final game, with singles counted by InLine Flow Products in the second and third ends narrowing the gap only slightly. The teams traded singles in the fourth and fifth ends, Cenovus adding another single in the sixth to take a 6-3 lead. Another four points for Cenovus in the seventh was the final straw for InLine's Brad Telford, Shane Park, Doug Evanechko and Angel Lee Telford, who gave up their quest for the Shamrock Valley Enterprises trophy.

Cenovus came into the final with a win over Scope/Logan in the semifinals, while InLine edged out the Shamrock Valley rink.

The other three finals took six ends or less to decide.

The Encore rink, made up of Tyler Warawa, Kelly Orr, Duncan Gabert and Tyson Ballas, jumped ahead of Darryl Molineux's Trimove foursome when they counted three in the fifth end, with Warawa's luck continuing in the sixth and giving his team the Hahn Welding and Oilfield Services trophy in the second event.

Hahn Welding's own rink, skipped by Murray Cochrane, also took just six ends to win the Weatherford trophies over Don Amderson's E-Can rink, while four ends were all it took for Irven Courts and his Neighborhood Inn rink to subdue Calvin Fisher's Diablo rink for the B & R Eckels trophies.

Four rinks in the running for the Highway Event had to wait until after curlers and guests had enjoyed an excellent banquet meal to learn their fate, with the NOV rink's name drawn to receive jackets presented by Marcel Amyotte of Bear Slashing.

Pete Stafford named Oilman of the Year

By VICKI BROOKER

Review Staff

Elk Point's 2014 Oilman of the Year is the late Pete Stafford. Longtime friend Dennis Cameron came to the podium at the 31st Annual Oilmen's Bonspiel banquet to announce the recipient, who for many years enjoyed competing in both these bonspiels and the Oilmen's Golf Tournaments and was in the winners' lineup at the 2006 golf tournament, just months before his passing.

"I knew Pete for many years," Cameron said. Many knew him as the operator of Jorvik Machine Tool, but many more knew him from his involvement in sports ranging from hockey and curling to ball and golf, he noted.

Stafford was raised on the family farm north of Marwayne, the middle child of five. He attended school in Marwayne, and during his high school years, often stayed after school to play basketball and would run the seven miles to get home. Cameron said that even then, Stafford showed "redneck tendencies," not only bringing home venison and ducks for the family table, but when the trees threatened to grow into the power line, "he pulled out his rifle to trim the spruce trees."

Sports and hunting weren't Stafford's only interest during his high school days, however. He met Karen Culford there, and not long after their school years ended, he married his high school sweetheart, Cameron said.

After working for local farmers, Stafford "ended up at Canadian Salt," as did Cameron, and apprenticed in welding as he and Karen raised their young family of four. "We worked and played together," he noted.

To "the man we knew as Pete," family was very important, Cameron pointed out. "He was a great husband and a great dad. He coached ball, he taught his kids to hunt and fish and took them camping. Pete was an athlete. He was a ball player. When he threw horseshoes, it was as if they had eyes. He played hockey, he curled, he played golf. He was a woodsman, and he loved to be in the woods ... and on the water." Music and photography were among Stafford's hobbies.

Cameron called Stafford "a man of integrity" who willingly donated to all kinds of community projects. "He was good natured, with a twinkle in his eye, but there were a few who riled his Irish blood, and who are still sorry they riled him up."

He was also a man "who did things all the way. He was a craftsman, a fabricator, who did things right." Even if he was busy on a big job, Stafford "always had time to repair things for farmers. He'd charge them $2 or $5. He had time for everybody."

The rest of Pete Stafford's story, Cameron said, "will be told at this year's Oilmen's Golf Tournament." In the meantime, he said, "Let's raise a toast to Pete."

Storseth concerned over policy changes

By RYAN MCCrackEN
Review Contributor

Westlock-St. Paul Conservative MP Brian Storseth recently voiced concerns over his party's proposed changes to the Addition to Reserves (ATR) policy, suggesting that the new policy is "fundamentally unfair."

An addition to reserve is "a parcel of land that is added to the existing land base of a First Nation or is used to create a new reserve. The legal title to the land is set apart for the use and benefit of the First Nation making the application. Land can be added to reserve in rural or urban settings," according to the Aboriginal Affairs and Northern Development Canada website.

Storseth argued that the proposed changes would make it easier for reserves to purchase land in fee-simple and then convert that land into reserve status.

"As it currently stands, First Nations communities can buy land in what's called fee-simple, it's the same way you or I buy land. For instance, Kookum's Bakery in St. Paul, a couple of years ago was bought by Goodfish Lake, and was bought in fee-simple. They operate a business, which is an economic development opportunity, and that's fine, because they have to abide by all the land use bylaws that the town has, they have to abide by the environmental assessment standards and the environmental assessment act that the province has, and they have to pay taxes on it," said Storseth. "What the Additions to Reserve policy does, is it allows them to take this land in fee-simple, and turn it into a reserve. So what you would have in that instance would be an urban reserve, where they own that building and they no longer have to pay any taxes, don't have to do any environmental assessment, and basically none of the towns laws or bylaws would apply to them, which I think is unfair."

Storseth added the current policy states that land to be converted to reserve status must be contiguous to the reserve, but the new policy will allow reserves to expand into areas that are not contiguous to their borders.

"The new policy would allow (reserves) to put anything, technically, that's in their traditional land area... So a place like Goodfish would then be able to expand, and rather than say St. Paul, maybe they want to buy some land in Cold Lake because it's growing a little quicker, and then turn that into a reserve status. To me that's fundamentally unfair."

The current ATR policy also states that land can be converted into reserve status for the purposes of legal obligations and agreements, community, additions or specific claims tribunal decisions. However, Storseth said under the new policy, economic development has been added as a purpose for additions to reserves.

"The new policy is far more ambiguous, and the reasoning for the policy is because none of those three above (legal obligations, community additions and tribunal decisions) include the stated reason for the policy as economic development," said Storseth. "When you look at something and look at doing it for economic development reasons that's a pretty wide swath. It's in very ambiguous terms."

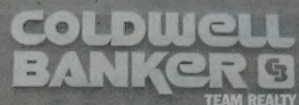

There is currently an example of this taking place with Onion Lake Cree Nation, who has purchased land in the County of Vermilion with plans of converting it to reserve status.

"(Onion Lake First Nation) purchased land in Vermilion County, right in the middle of the new industrial development that the county has put together... the county will have to pay for the roads, pay for the water and all the services for that development. The First Nations community bought the land in fee-simple and now they're trying to turn it into reserve status," said Storseth. "One of the keys here is the lack of any meaningful consultation. In the instance that we found in Vermilion County... there hasn't been enough meaningful consultation where the county feels comfortable with some of their prime land turning into reserve status. They get no revenue off of it, and they have no say over what goes there."

County of Vermilion Reeve Daryl Watt confirmed that the land was purchased by Onion Lake from a private owner, and expressed his belief that it will cause considerable consequences for the county.

"It has substantial consequences because we lose the ability to designate what that land will be used for, we lose the zoning ability on it. The other thing that happens is, once they turn it into reserve status, if they have businesses on that land, they pay no federal, provincial or municipal taxes on it," said Watt. "They can make commitments today but the future councils don't have to live by those commitments. It's a big concern for us because it's right dead in the middle of what you'd call our industrial or commercial area. It's also just on the very southwest corner of Blackfoot Hamlet. If we lose control of zoning and what's going to happen with that land, it has big consequences for us."

- When you are trying to change your habits with a goal to be healthier in 2014, it's best to choose one thing you want to change and work on that. That's what "Weedless Wednesday" is all about. Quitting smoking is all about taking it "one day at a time". If you can go one day without smoking, you are that much closer to quitting. Give it a try. - The word cataract comes from the Latin word cataracta which means waterfall. Cataracts of the eye is a clouding of the vision...something like trying to see through a sheet of falling water. A cataract is not a film covering over the eye but rather a clouding of the lens within the eye. Most cataracts are age-related and fortunately relatively easy to fix through surgery.

Ongoing effort

Fifteen years ago this month, Elk Point and district was embroiled in a major battle to save our healthcare facility. We, as a community, rallied at massive meetings, we wrote briefs and presented them to various levels of government, we made sure that we were not going down without a fight.

It wasn't the first time, it wasn't the last time, and the last time may never come in our lifetime, but rest assured, we will always do what it takes to keep our healthcare intact for Elk Point and district residents.

With the most recent issues now resolved, we will still keep a vigilant eye on the situation, just in case.

Way Back When...

Education cuts, healthcare cuts, larger profit

HERE'S THE NEWS THAT MADE THE HEADLINES OF THE LAKELAND REVIEW AND ELK POINT REVIEW FOR THE WEEK OF JAN. 28 IN...

1989

Elk Point Hospital's New Year's baby, son Evan Neil, born to Stephanie Cardinal, arrived on January 20. Nine nominees were in the running to be the Progressive Conservative candidate for Beaver River, after Prime Minister Brian Mulroney called a by-election for March 13, to fill the vacancy left by the death of John Dahmer just five days after his landslide victory on Nov. 21.

1994

School board chairman Ray Danyluk was prepared for a torrent of questions at a public meeting to outline education cuts, but both ratepayers and questions were just a disappointing trickle. Country songstress Patricia Conroy wowed a crowd estimated at 650 at the Elk Point Fairgrounds Arena.

1999

Elk Point was solidly behind its Health Centre, with 34 briefs presented at a public meeting in support of continued services by everyone from high school student Peter Danyluk, who gave a young perspective on the situation to John Kulig, who spoke on behalf of his wife, Dr. Sandy Koe, who was treating a critically ill patient at the time. Doug Irvine was named Top Rookie Driver of the Year and Kyle Lawrence the Top Rookie Outrider of the Year at the Canadian Professional Chuckwagon Association awards banquet, while Ervin Quinney won the Harold Schiller Memorial Award as the Most Sportsmanlike Driver.

2004

Elk Point Chamber of Commerce received an update on the Iron Horse Trail from the Riverland Recreational Trail Society, Alberta's Lakeland, the Iron Horse Trail and Elk Point TrailRiders Snowmobile Club, when CN Rail handed over the area between the trail right-of-way and the town's drainage ditch, which all felt would make a good staging area for the trail in Elk Point. Elk Point Atom Avalanche, dressed in brand new jerseys from McEwen's Fuels and Fertilizers, won the 'C' side of their home tournament.

2009

Profit from the 2008 Christmas Extravaganza was larger than expected, the chamber of commerce executive heaving a sigh of relief and agreeing that the excess funds will go toward construction of the EcoCentre. Elk Point's long-awaited Allied Arts Centre would be ready to open its doors within a month, possibly for the town's open house on Feb. 23.

GUEST COLUMN

Seasons

With our change in weather from -30 to +2, it is easy to understand why we may be confused about the season of the year. Is it winter or spring? Will we receive snow or rain? What is Mother Nature trying to tell us? Mother Nature gives us a lot to look at, deal with, enjoy or not enjoy.

deanna You decide.

EASTHOPE

from the FCSS desk

This reminds me of a man who retreats to his mountain cabin to enjoy the scenery. If he looks out the window to the east, he will see the snow-capped peaks of the Rockies; but if he fails to examine the view on the west, he will miss the crimson-streaked sunset on the horizon; if he neglects the scene to the north, he will never see the shimmering emerald lake; and if he bypasses the window on the south, he will fail to witness the wild flowers in all their brilliant glory, dancing in the gentle mountain breeze. Beauty besets him in every direction.

When I thought about what Mother Nature is trying to tell us in our area, I started looking around. Is there beauty in our area during this seasonal time? So I looked around the countryside to see what I could see. What I saw was very interesting. The snow-covered land now has a different picture. One can see that the wind made a change in how the snow appears. The crusty top looks like an artist painted it white by using glossy white paint. It definitely is not the flat white paint look that was there before. This is one example I found interesting.

Another example of what Mother Nature could be telling us is that everything is not solid. That is when the wind came, it came very strong and changes were made - so everything is not solid. In fact some people noted shingles were blown off their roofs. And what about our power source - was it a guarantee? Not really, as some people experienced a loss of power.

What caused this problem? The wind!!! Can we say, "Mother Nature just wants to let us know she has power she can use whenever she wants to?" The other message may be that what we thought was solid may not be really solid after all. Yes, there are messages from Mother Nature that can be noted. Is there beauty in these messages?

When we look at beauty more closely, we can ask ourselves: "Is there beauty in power?" As I have traveled and looked at the coastal beauty of rock cliffs in Canada and Ireland, I have seen the effect of Mother Nature's power. There is beauty in the size, shape and colour of the rocks, which is all a result of Mother Nature's power over time. Now about where we live in northeast Alberta, can we ask a question: Is there beauty here as a result of the wind? O.K., I have decided as I walk outside in wind, my "hair-do" changes and I have decided I will accept whatever it looks like. It becomes Mother Nature's choice what I look like, so therefore she and I are now partners in hair styling.

We have all seasonal thoughts about our weather. This reminds me of my few lines of poetry.

*"Winter came bringing cold and snow that stayed awhile this year
And then it could be said
she decided to court spring with a fury
Of dazzling ice and wind for all of us to note her seasonal power.
Oh could we again see winter court spring
and snowmen fall
And bring warmth that allows spring
to really come again.
Now wait a minute!
Why is winter courting spring now?
The month is January and not March.
Oh I know - winter is flirting with spring to make sure she is not sleeping too long, you see.
After all, seasons can be lonely
if they don't take the time to enjoy each other.
So seasonal change is your imagination and not hers, you see - for partners are they."*

Further Ed busy with winter sessions

Elk Point Further Education Council held their first meeting of 2014 last week, welcoming new town council representative Debra McQuinn and hearing reports from coordinator Verona Lea Flanders and her Heinsburg counterpart, Marie Zayac.

Zayac was unable to attend the meeting, but sent word that she will be offering an exercise program starting in early February, a St. John's Ambulance first aid course for school staff and an opportunity for indoor walking in the school.

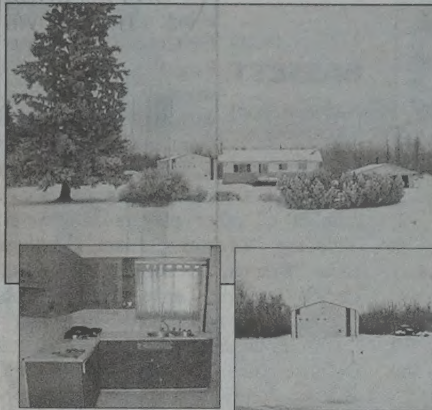

Elk Point's stretch and tone, dance fitness and walking group are already underway, as are the daytime quilters and Thursday sewing and scrapbooking sessions, and the year's first card making course went the previous evening, Flanders said. Other courses on this semester's agenda range from art to hypertufa and willow work to sewing, as well as computer skills and first aid, providing useful information and artistic outlets for those of varying interests.

Micro Novice host six-team tournament

Hot dogs, home made pie and chocolate sundaes! What could be better than that? Plus some great little tikes' hockey players having the time of their life playing their hearts out, some of them for the first time. That was the order of the day this past Saturday when the Micro Novice Avalanche hosted a one-day, six-team tournament. The parents were as busy as bees making burgers and fries, running the raffle table and time clock. It was another weekend when the parking lot was full from end to end. An absolutely awesome job by this group of parents, many of whom are just getting a taste of hockey and this was a good test for them, every one of them pitching in and passing the test big time.

One down and one to go! This past Thursday the Bantam Avalanche played their first provincial round robin game, winning 12 to 3 over Frog Lake. Even though it was only a nine-goal spread and you need a 10-goal spread to make it an automatic win, Frog Lake decided to throw in the towel and forfeit the second game. The Avalanche will now get a bye into the final round in a few weeks from now; their opponent is not known until the other four teams competing (Glendon, Smoky Lake, Redwater and CNN) in our zone play off. The Avalanche will play the winner.

On Friday night in league play, the bantams traveled to Mallaig, playing an ugly, rough match that was getting a bit out of control, a number of the Avalanche players getting banged up in this one. Down by three goals in the second period, they battled back to within one goal, the final score 6 to 5 for Mallaig. Ethan Tremblay with two goals and an assist, Brody "the Big O" Odgaard with a goal and an assist, "Slippery Shay" Wood and the team captain with a wicked slap shot,

Nicholas Tucker, with one goal each. D'areh Gadwa -Stone also getting an assist

On Saturday, our Atom Avalanche also traveled to Mallaig and came home with a big win. A hat trick for Charlie "the Angel" Rogal, Jaden "Jet stream" Van Maarion with two goals; both of them getting a number of assists as well. This was a total team effort and a great passing game as a number of other players scored too, including "Lightning Liam" Ludlage, Evan "Batman" Ockerman, Jadey "the Lady" Capjack, Lenae Peebles, Kobe "Cobra" Warawa, Luke "Skywalker" Poulin all on the game sheet with goals. Defensewoman Avery "Whirlwind" Warawa contributed a couple of helpers.

On Sunday the atoms traveled to Cold Lake, picking up another two points in a 7 to 4 victory. The "Angel" and "Lightning" with a hat trick each, "Batman" dropping in a single. Center man Matthew Quinney winning most of the face offs and adding an assist. Defenseman Odin "the Wall" Smith back checking hard defending the blue line. Big power forward "Danny Boy" Cardinal creating turnovers with his forechecking and behind the mask, Ronan "Radar" Poulin was solid in the cage for both weekend games. And just for the icing on the cake, Odin "the Wall" and Avery "Whirlwind" both celebrated their 10th birthdays on Sunday with the team victory.

The Novice No. 1 team played at home Sunday morning, winning by 14 to 8 over the Vermilion Tigers. Five goals each for Luke "Skywalker" Poulin and "King Kong Konnor" Poitras, Nathaniel Cousins pounding one into the mesh, Seth Morton with one, Rylee "the Rocket" Warawa with one and as usual Brady "Oscar" Hymanyk on the doorstep picking up the garbage and depositing one into the trash can. The "Mighty Casey" Warawa was in the line up, but had to leave after a few shifts with the flu. "Amazing Grace" Peebles and "St. Nic" Penner with a number of the assists, Vanden "Super Mario" Moroziuk between the pipes was doing a stand up job of keeping the rubber out.

Sunday evening the Peewee Avalanche had no problem handling St. Paul in the second game of the two-game provincial series, with the Avalanche coming into the game up by three goals, they finished them off, winning this one 10 to 3. Dylan "the Destroyer" Ference was on a real tear, scoring three goals and setting up two more. Hayden "Hot Wheels" Ludlage with a couple big center man Chase Dorey, his wing man Tyler Jamieson, Connor "Coast to Coast" Lychak and the Henderson twins "Raging Paige" and "Sam I am" all with one each. Corbin "Crusher" Ockerman, Devon "Naz" Nazarchuk and "Hammering Hank" Rogal with assists. The next provincial round will be against one of the teams out of Lloydminster.

Over in Lloydminster on Saturday the Novice No. 2 team, with a few of their own team players missing brought along a little help from the Novice No. 1 team, "St Nic" Penner and "King Kong Konnor" Poitras signed up to help out with the short bench. With everyone giving 110 per cent, they played against the top tier two team in the Border City, giving them a real run for the money. The Avalanche came out strong and led the game 6 to 4 after 40 minutes, but eventually powered out in third period, the final score 10 to 8 for Lloyd. "Mic Jager" Fontaine doing a little dance and "How's it going" scoring five goals, "Dean the Machine" Ockerman motoring in through the traffic with two and "King Kong Konnor" adding a single. "Kid Kade" Fontaine between the pipes was doing a mighty fine job of keeping this one within reach.

And now for the K.A. Campbell quote of the week." Listen, fellas. I've got to tell you this. I'm not the greatest coach in the world. But if you look around this room you'll see that I don't have the greatest players either." Last weeks answer to: "We know hockey is where we live, where we can best meet and overcome pain and wrong and death. Life is just a place where we spend time between games."- Fred Shero.

Junior Crusaders host basketball tournament

By JONATHAN RANDALL

F. G. Miller Jr/Sr High School Athletic Director

F. G. Miller Junior High Crusaders Boys and Girls both finished second in their pools and advanced to the final games of this weekend's home tournament. The girls battled hard but ended up losing 34-9 to the Glen Avon Panthers. The girls played great all weekend and are really coming together as a team. Reanne Harasiuk is doing an excellent job coaching the girls.

The boys played Mallaig in the final game, a rematch of the game which they lost by five earlier in the tournament. The boys again played hard but ran out of gas toward the end of the game and ended up losing 46-32 to Mallaig. Mallaig Jr Boys are a great team and the boys played hard all weekend. A big thanks to all parents, students and staff that helped out with the tournament and made it a big success.

F. G. Miller High School's newly enlarged and renovated gym provided a great setting for this past weekend's Junior High basketball tournament, with plenty of room for fans to view all the game action from the brand new bleachers. Here, the Crusader boys take on Mallaig in their first game on Saturday.

CNRL donates to FGM Athletics

Former F. G. Miller Crusader Carrie Rawlake (#6, centre front) proudly donned one of the new Crusader jerseys to make a $5,000 donation from Canadian Natural Resources to Phys Ed instructor Jonathan Randall toward the purchase of new equipment for the Athletics department, while surrounded by some of the students who will put the equipment to good use. New basketball and volleyball carts and track and field equipment are on the shopping list of "a bunch of things we really needed", Randall said, adding that some of the funds will also go toward arena rentals.

"We're happy to be able to help out," Rawlake said. "The school is an important part of our community, and everyone will benefit from this."

Storseth concerned

Storseth said he sees no issue with allowing reserves to purchase land in fee-simple, especially when it is done for the purposes of community expansion, but that his issue lies in the process of turning that land into reserve status, and the lack of consultation required.

"There is very little, if any, consultation required of the municipality in which that land is currently occupied. . . If we're going to make changes to anything to do with First Nations it says in our constitution of Canada that we need to consult with First Nations, and there have been several court cases that have established what consultation means," he said. "In this process, consultation seemingly only means that they need to let you know that it's going to happen. I believe that municipalities have a right to be consulted right from the outset of when you're thinking about turning it into reserve status, because this obviously is going to affect municipalities significantly."

Representatives from Aboriginal Affairs and Northern Development Canada, and Onion Lake First Nation were unavailable for comment on the issue.

Further Ed

The daytime quilters have been very busy this year, with steady and substantial production, although they are a small group with only four to five volunteers most Tuesdays. Some sew quilt tops together; others cut fabric, piece together batts, and layer and pin backing, batt and quilt tops, while others tie the finished product with yarn to keep the batt in place. This teamwork recently resulted in the group passing the total of 1,800 quilts completed since the project began in 1994. These quilts have been donated to many worthy causes, from fire victims to homeless shelters and youth camps, and some will soon be headed to Mexico as part of an aid shipment to less fortunate people there.

The council made the first step toward owning its own facility last week, when Alberta Education, which owns the former ECS portable classroom that has housed Further Ed for many years, offered it for sale at a nominal sum. The council passed a motion to pursue the purchase, and also agreed to contact St. Paul Regional Education Division No. 1 to ensure that the building could remain on SPERD's property if it is purchased.

The council also reviewed its bylaws at the January meeting, approving a few minor changes that reflect the changes in the operation and course offerings over the years since the last review.
